TEACHING HIS DOG TO BE VICIOUS.—At the Esplanade Police Court yesterday, before Mr. P. H. Dastoor, a victoria-driver, named Khudabux, was brought up by Inspector Stanford on a charge of neglecting to take order with a furious dog. The evidence proved that the prisoner set his dog upon one Alijee Jamal on the 26th ultimo, at Mombadevie, and thus caused the animal to bite him on the heel. The nature of the bite necessitated his detention in hospital for a month. The prisoner denied exciting the animal upon its victim in earnest. He was merely playing with it. The Magistrate took a serious view of the case, and fined the accused Rs. 50, which he awarded to the complainant as compensation; or in default one month's rigorous imprisonment.

FIRE AT A MILL.—On Wednesday morning, a report was made by a sepoy, doing duty at the Bomanji Petit Mill, Arthur Road, that a quantity of window frames that were prepared to be put up in the spinning room (now under construction) caught fire the night previous, which was first noticed by the night watchman, Bhawanipersad Seobalik, when going his round at 10 p.m. He with a few others quickly extinguished the fire. On enquiry it was ascertained that the contractor, Damodher Narayen, had placed twenty-two of these window frames on the first floor of the spinning room, where a number of men were at work that evening; and the only apparent cause of the fire seems to be careless biddi smoking, as a very large quantity of biddi ends and burnt matches were to be seen strewn about the floor of the building, which is non-inflammable. Only thirteen of the window frames were damaged, resulting in a loss of Rs. 150 to the contractor, who has insured the material.

A MARATHA LADY AT THE MATRICULATION.—The Hindoos, and especially the Marathas, will be glad to find that one of the forty-one ladies that appear at this year's Matriculation Examination is a Maratha lady, Mrs. Tara Bai Wanave, the wife of the editor of a military paper, the Pandit (or Civil and Military Instructor) and founder of the Benevolent Society, Civil Military Orphanage, and its press. Pandit G. Wanave is known for his charities toward the destitute and for his popular and cheap translations of the Military Rules, Regulation, and Drill-books, &c. He is a practical reformer and has passed the last nine or ten years in silently advancing the cause of female education, widow-marriages and supporting a number of destitute children of the civil and military in India. Mrs. Wanave prosecuted her studies in the Female High School of Poona, under the patronage of H. H. the Gaekwar, and she is the first Maratha lady at the door of the Bombay University.

THE ST. FIDELIS MUSICAL SOCIETY.—Amidst the multiplicity of benefactions of Father Thome Joao Ferreira, the late venerable Vicar of the Church of Our Lady of Succour, at Manori, one of the most notable is the institution of the St. Fidelis Musical Society, called after one of his nephews, towards the maintenance of which a munificent endowment has been bestowed by him. The inaugural ceremony of this Society is fixed for next Saturday at the rural residence of Mr. Bonifacio Ferreira. From the substantial funds at its command, the institution must derive a powerful vitality, and with an accomplished musician like Mr. Peter Pereira for its guiding hand, it promises to be an ornament to the village and an invaluable acquisition to the Church of Manori, in the interests of which it has been established. This neat little church possesses all the charm of picturesque surroundings, the hallowness of historical associations being one of the relics of the past grandeur and religious zeal of the Portuguese in the East.

A BLOW IN REVENGE.—At the Girgaum Police Court yesterday, Veerjee Shamjee was charged before Mr. Hamilton, with being drunk and disorderly. Some twelve days ago one Goolam Nubbee, an alleged Mahomedan gambler, asked permission of the manager of the Bombay Theatre, at Falkland Road, to open a billiard-room in the compound of the theatre. The manager refused the application, as he knew very well that the billiard-room was only a cloak for carrying on a gambling booth, and he did not want to get into disrepute with the authorities. The accused then left. On Wednesday night, while complainant was standing at a betel stall, on Falkland Road, the accused, accompanied by three other Mahomedan budmashes accosted him, asking if he were not Haji Ahmed. On complainant giving an affirmative reply, the accused gave him a blow on the face, causing a contused wound on the left eye. The latter raised an alarm, and the police arrived, and arrested the accused, who smelt strongly of liquor. The three budmashes bolted. His Worship convicted the accused of causing hurt and fined him Rs. 20, of which Rs. 10 were awarded to the complainant as compensation.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.—At the Esplanade Police Courts yesterday, before Mr. P. H. Dastoor, Fourth Presidency Magistrate, Inspector Stanford charged Khimjee Mathooradas, a Bania youth, and Goki Godatsing, with housebreaking and theft of gold and silver ornaments, valued at Rs. 139. The articles were claimed and identified by Narayendass Goverdhandass. The confession of Khimjee showed that he met a certain Ramchunder, at Chowpattee, who asked him whether there was a place in which a burglary could be committed. After procuring the necessary implements of house-breaking from a Borah they decided to meet at Duncan Road, on Sunday night, and entered a house at Wituwady in which complainant lived. After picking the lock on the door Ramchunder entered, and shortly after came out with a bundle, which was opened in his house and was found to contain the above property, which was divided between them at the Madhow Baug. Khimji met the second accused who took charge of the property, but whilst going home, they were arrested on suspicion by a policeman. The further hearing of the case was postponed till the 1st proximo to complete the investigation, Goki was bailed out in the sum of Rs. 50.

MEETING OF RESIDENTS ON COLABA CAUSEWAY.

A MEETING, convened by Mr. Byramjee Dadabhoy Banajee, of the tenants on the Colaba Causeway, Lansdowne Road, and Apollo Bunder, was held last evening, in the second house from the Apollo Hotel, to consider the insanitary state of the Causeway and devise some means whereby they might relieve themselves of the nuisance they have long had to put up with. A fairly representative gathering of residents of the locality assembled to discuss their grievances, among whom were the French and American Consuls, Captain Tice, Captain Thorburn, Captain Gillett, and others. Letters were read to the meeting, which Mr. Banajee had received from Bishop J. E. Robinson, of the Methodist Episcopal Church and Captain A. C. Clark, the surveyor to the B. I. S. N. Co. expressing regret at their inability to be present, and heartily sympathizing with the objects of the meeting. The Rev. E. Mortimer was voted to the chair, and opened the business of the evening by dwelling on the importance of the subject they had met to discuss, and in the course of his remarks likened the sanitation of the Causeway to cesspool sanitation. The reverend gentleman wound up his opening address by calling upon any gentleman present, who wished to do so to, kindly address the meeting and give them all the benefit of his experience. The following gentlemen then addressed the meeting, each expressing his own peculiar views on the subject, viz., Mr. Brooks, an engineer, Mr. J. Henderson, an engineer in the docks, Captain Tice of the Royal Navy, Dr. Foy, Mr. MacAlpin, and Mr. Geyer. The following resolution was then put to the meeting, and unanimously carried:—Proposed by Mr. J. Henderson that a committee be appointed to wait upon the Municipal Commissioner to point out the nuisances and the unhealthiness connected with the present system of drainage on the Colaba Causeway, and, if possible, to get an expression of his views on the subject. The following committee were then appointed:—Capt. Tice, Capt. Thorburn, Mr. Ballantine, Mr. Isaacs, Capt Gillett, Mr. H. A. Geyer, Rev. E. Mortimer, Mr. Banajee, and Mr. Kassimbhoy Moosa, manager to H. H. Aga Khan. The meeting dispersed with the usual compliment to the chair.

A SELF-STYLED MADMAN.

AT the Girgaum Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Hamilton, a European inmate of the Government Workhouse, named Edward Thornton, aged about 25 years, was charged by Captain N. P. Walshe, the Governor of the Workhouse, with assaulting two warders of the institution in the execution of their duty. On the 17th instant, the accused had been concerned in a fight with some of the other inmates of the Workhouse and Warder Martin interfered and ordered him into confinement, pending a report of the affair to the superintendent, thereupon the accused became pugnacious, threatening to go for Martin (the warder) who called another warder, named G. Thompson, to his assistance. The accused thereupon assaulted this latter officer, knocking him down with a blow on the face. A regular scuffle than ensued, and Warder Martin managed to secure the accused, who had fallen to the ground. The accused then promised to go quietly to his room with the warders, but on being allowed to rise to his feet, he again became pugnacious. The warders, not liking to provoke another disturbance, left him alone for the night. The accused had been an inmate of the Workhouse for three weeks, and had not during this time shown any signs of insanity. Accused admitted the charge and apologised, saying he was very much excited at the time with the fight he had had with the other inmates. He further stated that he received a violent blow on the head some time back and got off his head in consequence, when he was confined in the Lunatic Asylum for five months, and since then he was unable to have any control over his actions when excited or angry. The Magistrate convicted the accused, and sentenced him to undergo two months' rigorous imprisonment.

The Bombay Gazette
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1892.

THE last phase of the lamentable Beyts Craig and Co.'s case came on before the Criminal Sessions of the High Court yesterday. Henry Stafford Beyts, the son of the senior partner of the firm, has been sentenced to five years rigorous imprisonment. The prosecution elected to proceed "in the first instance" with two charges of cheating, Mr. Macpherson contending that it would depend on the result in those cases whether the charge of forging bills of lading would be gone into. The charge of cheating was based on two transactions in June last, when the Bombay manager of the firm induced Mr. Bergendahl, the Agent of the Chartered Mercantile Bank, to purchase bills of exchange with bills of lading attached, proporting to represent goods shipped to London. No such goods were on board the vessel named. When that fact was discovered in London, Mr. Bergendahl saw the younger Beyts, who admitted that such bills had been sold and that different banks held others to the amount of £10,000. The total amount of the money obtained in this way exceeded £70,000. These facts were proved in evidence. For the defence Mr. Jardine urged that the accused was only a youth, that the management of the business was perfunctory, that the transaction were numerous and extensive, and that he did not know, when bills were presented to him in the usual routine for signature, that they did not represent goods. If he were in fault it was through carelessness, and the frauds were due to others, under whose influence he was, and who were really responsible for what had happened. The learned counsel appealed to the jury to take into account the inexperience of the young man who was suffering for the faults of older men. There was no evidence to support the theory that the accused was not aware when he sold the bills to the Bank, that they did not represent merchandise—a fact which the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Parsons, in the course of a brief and lucid summing up, pointed out to the jury. His Lordship read the evidence of Mr. Bergendahl, which set forth that the prisoner in June last did not assert that he was not aware that the bills did not represent goods, but on the contrary stated that such bills had been issued for some time, and that other Banks then held them to the amount of ten thousand pounds sterling. As the judge said, when he had read the evidence led in the case, it was not his fault if it was all on one side, and that no witnesses had been called to show that the contention was well founded, that the prisoner was induced to sign documents which he had no reason to believe were intended to defraud the Bank. The jury after twenty minutes' deliberation returned a unanimous verdict of guilty in each of the two cases of cheating. Some of the jurors added the expression of a hope that the judge in passing sentence would take into consideration the prisoner's youth and the probability that he had acted under the influence of others. Mr. Justice Parsons, remarking that the verdict was the only one possible in view of the clear evidence, stated that he did not agree with those members of the jury who considered that it was a case for leniency. The offence of which the prisoner was guilty was that of trading on the reputation for honesty enjoyed by Bombay merchants, and using it to defraud the banks of enormous sums. In such a case a severe sentence seemed to his lordship necessary, not only as punishment for the prisoner, but as an example. The sentence of the Court was two and a half year's rigorous imprisonment for each of the two cases of cheating, making five years' imprisonment. The severity of the sentence was somewhat of a surprise in view of the fact that the prisoner's seniors had been sentenced to only two years' imprisonment, and many persons would have wished that the word "concurrently" had followed the award of the punishment for each offence. The general opinion, however, will doubtless be that the severity of the sentence will have a salutary effect, and is not excessive, considering the magnitude of the series of frauds to which the prisoner had lent himself. Of course after the heavy sentence was passed nothing more was heard of the charge of forgery, which will not now be proceeded with.

Two remedies have been prescribed within the past few days for the lack of zeal from which volunteering in India suffers. General Brackenbury at Karachi said the remedy lies with the ladies, and he told a story of a country in which he once served where some of the men remained behind when the others had gone to war. Thereupon the women, divesting themselves of much of their adornment, daubed themselves with war-paint, armed themselves with sticks, and thrashed every man who hung back. He did not recommend the ladies in India to follow this example in its entirety, but to adopt a similar view of the case and use their influence in another way to get the young men to become Volunteers. Was it not the fact that the women who, when the first batch of mutineers in the 3rd Cavalry were imprisoned, urged the others to rebellion? And had the European and Eurasian ladies less influence with the other sex than these? It was in terms of this sort that General Brackenbury appealed to his auditors at the prize-distribution to the Sind Rifle Volunteers. Captain Finch, Adjutant of the North-Western Railway Volunteers, in an article in the Journal of the United Service Institution of India, prescribes another remedy, convinced as he is that the apathy of the European and Eurasian population is due to the lack of interest on the part of the higher classes of Government servants and others who apparently deem it beneath their dignity to serve in the ranks. He too goes back to the Mutiny, to find arguments in favour of every man being trained to the use of arms, and both General Brackenbury and Captain Finch remind those to whom their remarks are addressed that had there been such corps of Volunteers as we have to-day, much of the cruelty to women and children might have been prevented. It displays a want of manliness to hang back from taking a share in the duty of every man in India, to prepare to defend the women of his race, declared General Brackenbury, and Captain Finch, who preaches a sermon on the same text as his superior officer, while on parallel lines, enters more fully into details in order to enlighten those who think it is sufficient to know how to use a rifle. It is not sufficient, he says. If the example were set by senior civilians and others in authority by joining themselves instead of merely exercising their influence to get others to join, not much pressure would be necessary. An immense impulse is given to volunteering by men of position joining it, and what is wanted, as Captain Finch declares, is their example. The writer proceeds further upon this section of his subject, and contends that if the commandant selected the officers and submitted their names for approval, as is done in the railway corps, the best men would be appointed, and those who by their position could have authority over the men, many of whom would often be under them in civil life. This is a matter which is frequently lost sight of, and is doubtless one of the chief obstacles in the way of volunteering. For constituted as the corps—other than railway corps—happens to be, the appointment of an unpopular officer may disperse an entire company. It is even worse when the commanding officer is unpopular or not wholly efficient, and the most patriotic course such an officer can adopt is to retire. But Captain Finch has another valuable suggestion to makewith a view to prevent the men from resigning at will. He would have them sign an agreement to serve, say three years either in their original corps or in whatever corps there may be in the station to which they may be transferred, or pay a penalty and also to pay a fine for every year they are not efficient. This system prevails in England in most of the good corps, and a man is thus prevented from resigning at any time he has or fancies he has a grievance. The necessity for discipline was urged by General Brackenbury, and Captain Finch maintains that it is the chief thing. On this he bases his arguments in favour of the selection rather than election of officers. But the Volunteer Committee is against him in this point, and has decided in favour of selection. Altogether, however, his paper is an excellent treatise on the needs of Volunteer Corps and the best means of improving them. The article is well worthy of perusal, for Captain Finch has had much experience of volunteering, and is well qualified to express an opinion.

THE leaders of the pay agitation will be gratified to learn that the Statist repudiates with some warmth the assumption that it is opposed to any concessions to the Services. It devotes an unusually long article to the subject, and its views in the main do not appear to differ very materially from the demands of the Public Service Committee so far as they are known in this country. While it admits that the members of the Services suffer loss in consequence of the depreciation of silver, it contends that the losses are not as great as they are sometimes represented to be. Perhaps; but our contemporary is hardly justified in making so much of the exaggerations in one single letter that recently appeared in the Times, as if the writer were a typical sample of Indian officials. Again, it is a work of supererogation to point out that there is no equitable claim for any compensation so far as the portion of salary spent in India is concerned. The Statist denies that any equitable claim exists at all, but thinks it is politically expedient to grant redress as far as is possible with just regard to the Indian tax-payers, "foolish people" in India are predicting that the Services, if the fall in the rupee continues, will become as corrupt as they were in the days of Clive. "We have too high an opinion," says the Statist, "of our countrymen, to entertain that fear." But leaving corruption altogether out of the question, it is obvious, we are told, that a discontented administration is an evil to those subject to it, and a danger to the State, while there is a possibility of the Services being deteriorated. The true remedy seems to be suggested by a concession lately made by at least one eminent Anglo-Indian mercantile firm and possibly by others. The firm in question gives its European employés the option of having one-third of their salaries paid at home at a high fixed exchange on the understanding that it is for bona fide payments made in this country. For this expression of opinion the Services will be thankful to the Statist, but we are not sure that they will be equally grateful for the gratuitous advice to the Government not to entertain for a moment a proposal to raise salaries all round. Before tendering this counsel the Statist might have waited until such a proposal was made, as it assumes, by the Services as a body. Such an assumption is calculated to injure the Indian Services in the eyes of the uninstructed public at home.

AN instructive memorandum published in the Central Provinces Gazette reviews the annual returns of the rail-borne traffic for last year. There has been a considerable increase, and this is accounted for by the opening of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway, the returns of which are for the first time included in the annual statements. The effect on the imports of cotton goods has been marked, for the quantity has more than doubled. Dried fruit and nuts, salt and sugar, have all contributed to the increase in traffic. Coal has increased by almost five lakhs. And not only imports but exports from the Chattisgarh block are shown to have greatly developed. Until last year the whole of the cultivable land was not cultivated. But the opening of the railway has lent an impetus to cultivation, and now none of the land lies idle. Throughout the Central Provinces, in the year just ended, it appears the trade has over-topped all previous records. The value of goods exported exceeded the largest previous figures by nearly a crore and a half, and in bulk, apart from value, the traffic was a fifth larger than that of any previous year. The bulk of the import traffic shows larger results than the prices seem to indicate, for with larger supplies the prices fell. As we have said the opening of the new line accounts for the best part of the increase, but in other directions there has been more than normal activity. Yet the trade of the Central Provinces had been steadily growing for years past. Since 1888 imports have increased for forty to sixty per cent. in weight and eleven per cent. in value; exports by twenty-nine per cent. in weight and fifty per cent in value. The differences in value and weight are referred to by the Commissioner of Settlements and Agriculture. His enquiries show that during the past eight years there has been no rise in the prices of European cotton goods and metals, while the prices of raw produce have been steadily rising. Five years ago the exports exceeded the imports by only

IMPORTANT SPEECH BY GENERAL VON CAPRIVI.

THE GERMAN ARMY LACKS EFFICIENCY.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.

General Von Caprivi, in introducing the new Army Bill in the Reichstag, to-day, made an important speech, in which he said there was no fear of war in the immediate future, but that it was necessary to prepare for the next war on two fronts.

France, he said, loved war [not merely for?] for glory's sake, and was anxious to conclude an alliance for the sole purpose of revising the map of Europe. The powers forming the Triple Alliance were weaker in troops than Russia and France. His Excellency then said that the German Army was the largest in the world, but lacked efficiency, and that the Government desired thoroughly to enforce universal service and adopt the biennial system except in the Cavalry and Artillery.

LORD LANSDOWNE AT MADRAS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MADRAS, Nov. 24.

H. E. the Viceroy arrived at Madras this morning, and was met at the station by H. E. the Governor, the Commander-in-Chief, several Native Chiefs, and an enormous crowd. An address from the Municipality was presented. It complained of want of funds for drainage and water-works, though the people pay as heavy taxes as they can bear; urged the direct connection of the East Coast Railway with the Madras Railway; and concluded by expressing gratitude for the sympathy recently manifested by H. E. the Viceroy on the question of the reconstitution of Legislative Councils on the representative basis. H. E. the Viceroy, in course of his reply, pointed out that the rates paid here are not so high as in Bombay and Calcutta. He should like to encourage, his Excellency said, the hearers to expect assistance from the Government of India by allowing the local Government to relieve the Municipality of its present contribution to the provincial funds, but he was afraid the Government of India resources were likely to undergo a strain at least as severe as that alluded to in the address. His Excellency reserved his reply as to railway. Concluding his Excellency announced that under the rules, now being prepared, the Municipality of Madras will probably be asked to select one additional member for the local Legislative Council. H. E. the Viceroy was heartily welcomed by all classes, who thronged the roads leading to the Government House, where the visitors are staying. H. E. the Viceroy, accompanied by H. E. the Governor, this evening, paid private visits to the Christian College, and the Presidency College. After dinner his Excellency attended a grand entertainment at the house of Rajah Sir Ramasamy Moodelliar.

CAMP-OF-EXERCISE AT DHANOWRIE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, Nov. 24.

It has been decided to hold a Camp-of-Instruction, near Dhanowrie, on January next. Operations will probably extend from the 5th to the 25th, and should prove of a most interesting character as the field of operations will be larger than last year. The Northern attacking force moves from Ahmednagar on Poona, seventy-four miles distant; and the Southern defending force, at Poona, with a detached brigade in the vicinity of Kondapur, opposes the movement. General Gatacre, from Kamptee, commands the Northerners, and General Blundell, the Southerners. The general idea is as under:—The Southern Army, whose head-quarters are at Poona, has a detached force at Kondapur. Intelligence is received that a force of two brigades with Cavalry and Artillery is advancing on Poona, having passed through Ahmednagar on the 5th. The Southern commander immediately directs the Kondapur force to advance to Sirur, and dispute the passage of Gornadi. A force in support is pushed out from Poona. The special ideas will be issued later. The following troops will take part:—L Battery, R. H. A., Nos. 26, 27, 36, 72 Field Batteries, No. 6 Mountain Battery, the King's Own Royal Lancaster, the Lancashire Fusiliers, the Worcester Regiment, the Loyal North Lancashire, the Yorkshire Light Infantry, the Poona Volunteers, the 2nd Bombay Lancers, 4th Bombay Cavalry, Sappers and Miners, and the 3rd, 8th, 10th, 13th, 25th Regiments Bombay Infantry. Six officers from all Corps in the Bombay Presidency will be detailed as umpires.

The plan of operations for the Bhamo frontier is as follows: "No column should start with less than one hundred rounds per man; every inhabited hill and village, within the limits of the operation column, to be visited. When punishment is to be inflicted it should be directed against the heads of clans than the clansmen. Taking hostages to be avoided, but individual offenders may be apprehended. Burning of houses to be the last resort for obstinate contumacy, but as far as possible it should be confined to houses and property of headmen. The columns should proceed leisurely, and give sufficient time for surveying and collecting statistics. The immediate proximity of the locally recognised Chinese frontier should be avoided. Mr. Hobday's frontier line is to be crossed on no account whatever.

THERE was no improvement in the Calcutta freigh market last week, rates remaining much in statu quo. Steamers requiring ready cargo have to accept practically any price that they can get. Relets of steamer tonnage to Dundee and Hamburg have been done at 15s. for ready. For early December shipment a little rice has been booked at 12s. 6d. and for the end of that month, say, 15s., also in small lots; ordinarily shippers won't pay those prices, nor can they be blamed if they prefer to think they will do better by waiting. Jute is still the wet blanket on the market, and there is nothing doing forward. A ship has been fixed for Hamburg at 22s. 6d. for December, but this is believed to be against something previously done that is missing. All the regular lines of steamers have come to an agreement and the "conference of liners" is once more in existence; they appear to be somewhat exercised in mind, and are said to be making changes in the way of subjecting certain merchandise to higher rates as compared with other stuff, than has been the practice hitherto. The confederation will of necessity help them in prices for outward cargo, and it is not unlikely that an advance will shortly be seen for choice merchandise, such as tea and even human live-stock may be forced to pay more than what have of late been considered the lowest rates for such cubically unmeasurable freight.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

AT the opening of the Italian Parliament on Wednesday, King Humbert referred to the Triple Alliance which, he said, continues to exercise vigilant care to prevent dissensions in Europe. General Caprivi, in introducing the new Army Bill in the Reichstag said France was anxious to conclude an alliance for the sole purpose of revising the map of Europe. The Triple Alliance was weaker in troops than France and Russia. It was, therefore, necessary to prepare for war on two fronts.

EIGHT-NINTHS of the spindles in Lancashire are now either stopped or working half-time.

SIR DENNIS FITZPATRICK, who closes his present tour at Lahore about the 19th December, contemplates a second trip to the frontier. According to present intentions, he will leave early in the new year, and will remain out in camp until about the middle of April.

THE Cochin Argus regrets to announce the death of Mr. C. Tiruvenkatta Charier, B.A., B.L., the Dewan of Cochin, which took place on Thursday night. The deceased minister had been ailing for some time past from an attack of rheumatic fever, which latterly prevented him from attending to his duties.

FROM the 12th to the 18th instant, 11 East Indians, 12 Native Christians, 307 Hindus, and 29 Mahomedans died within the Municipal limits in Madras, making a total of 359 persons. The average of the corresponding week for the ten previous years was 335. The deaths are thus classified:—3 from cholera, 4 from measles, 128 from fevers, 50 from dysentery, 20 from diarrhœa, and 154 from other diseases. The death-rate in the week under notice was 41·2 per 1,000 per annum. The mean of the ten previous years was 38·5 per 1,000 per annum.

A HAVAS telegram states that many exciting election speeches are being made by Ministers. Signor Brin says that Italy, notwithstanding her peaceful intentions, finds it impossible to disarm. Signor Capelli asserts that the Triple Alliance does not impose any armament on Italy.

DURING the second quarter of the current financial year some 26,38,000 maunds of salt were cleared in Bengal. This is an increase of over a lakh of maunds as compared with the previous quarter, and a decrease of about a lakh as compared with the corresponding period in 1891-92. There was a very large increase in the sale of excise salt.

ACCORDING to news from Srinagar, the Punjab Government has not yet replied to the demand of the Kashmir Council that Muhammad Afzul Khan, Governor of Kashmir, may be reverted for reasons given to his substantive post of tahsildar in the Punjab. Till our affirmative answer is received, the appointment of Bakshi Permanent in his place is held over, Muhammad Afzul Khan remaining nominally, and Pundit Suraj Kaul really, Governor of Kashmir.

OUR frontier contemporary is glad to believe that, as an outcome of the present Chitral expedition, a suggestion we have more than once strongly put forward will be carried into effect by the permanent deputation of Surgeon-Major Robertson with a military guard as British Resident in Chitral: and we hope that this will lead at an early date to the construction of a decent road connecting Chitral with Gilgit and via the Indus Valley with India. Dr. Robertson ought also, we should say, to have at least one other British officer as Assistant Resident.

THE bills of health given to vessels leaving Marseilles will henceforth bear the mention that the cholera epidemic is terminated.

BRIGADIER-GENERAL G. F. BEVILLE, C.B., commanding the Deesa District, Bombay Presidency, who under rule should have vacated command on promotion to Major-General, has been allowed by the Secretary of State for India to retain his post until he completes his tenure of five years, which will be on the 1st of April 1894. An India Army Circular will shortly be issued according sanction to the retention of 2nd class District Commands by Brigadiers-General on their promotion to the rank of Major-General up to the age of fifty-seven years, subject of course to the limitations of the five years' tenure rule.

THE casket which is to contain the address of the Bangalore Municipal Commissioners to His Excellency the Viceroy is, it appears, a very fine specimen of local workmanship. It is of Oriental description, decorated swami fashion with gods and goddesses and sacred bulls, and is surmounted on four pedestals. The presentation inscription is on an oval plate in front, while beneath are medallions bearing the Viceroy's Coat of Arms, and the Bangalore Municipal Mural Crown. At the back is an elephant-catching scene, beautifully engraved on an oval plate. The casket is the production of Messrs. Barton, Son and Co., the Bangalore jewellers.

A CORRESPONDENT who knew Shams-ud-Din, the officer killed by the Russians at Soma Tash, on the Pamirs, states that he was a very good specimen of the rising generation of Afghans. He came of a family which had always steadfastly supported the cause of the present Amir, and, though only thirty years of age at the time of his death, he had officiated in 1885 as Governor of Badakshan. He, at that time, spoke to one of our explorers in enthusiastic terms of the alliance between England and Afghanistan. The Rawalpindi Durbar had, in his own words, "made the two kingdoms one," the phrase indicating that they both had a common interest in resisting the encroachments of Russia. Shams-ud-Din is said to have been a brave and manly officer, a description one may accept after the manner in which he resented the insult offered to him by Colonel Yanoff.

THE Meerut School of Musketry for Imperial Service Troops is doing excellent work under the direction of Captain H. V. Cox, the officer in charge. The course for Cavalry closed last week, the shooting being very good indeed. Of the 13 marksmen and 25 first-class shots who obtained certificates Ressaldar Khuda Baksh Khan, Ulwar Lancers, headed the list both with carbine and revolver. The next course, for Infantry, begins on December 14th. Captain Cox has arranged for a rifle meeting in February, which should become an annual affair. The Viceroy has presented a championship medal to be shot for and the money prizes will amount to at least Rs. 1,000.

MR. JUSTIN MCCARTHY, M.P., contributes to the new number of the New Review short article on Mr. Morley's work in Ireland. "To our minds the Castle form of government is an Augean stable, and we want to have it cleared out first of all. But we are quite prepared to admit that statesmanship must be allowed to move with measured steps if only it is moving in the right direction. I feel confident that Mr. Morley is moving and will continue to move in the right direction. I am glad to read that there is no disposition on the part of anybody of men calling themselves Irish Nationalists to put any difficulty in his way, or to make his work of reform impossible." Mr. McCarthy admits the difficulty of Mr. Morley's task in dealing with the evicted tenants, and goes on to say that he does not see how the Chief Secretary could have done better than appoint a Viceregal Commission—all the better for being a roving Commission "Mr. Morley is dealing and has still to deal with the magisterial bench in Ireland. It is obviously necessary that the magisterial bench should now be recruited by men who understand and are not afraid to express the popular sentiment of the country."

THE HYDERABAD PAMPHLET SCANDAL.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

HYDERABAD, Nov. 21.

THE adjourned hearing of the Pamphlet Scandal Case in which Mr. Mehdi Hassan, late Home Secretary to the Hyderabad State, charges S. M. Mitra, with slander, came up to-day, at the Residency Bazaar Court, before Mr. O. V. Bosanquet. Complainant was represented by Mr. Forbes, Mr. Gribble, and Mr. Fitzpatrick, pleaders, and the accused by Mr. Eardley Norton, barrister-at-law, instructed by Mr. Edgelow, of Bombay. The cross-examination of the complainant Mehdi Hassan by Mr. Norton was continued.

Mr. Norton:. Were not those Rs. 25,000 you deposited at the Bank of Bombay the proceeds of the money you took from the Court of Wards?—Mehdi Hassan—No.

Have you taken any other moneys from the Court of Wards?—No.

From the Government?—From the Government, I got Rs. 10,000 as further loan.

When did you get it?—I cannot remember.

Since April?—I believe so.

Who gave you the money?—The Minister, out of the Treasury.

Was the money for this case?—Yes.

Have you spent it on this case?—Yes.

In addition to the Rs. 25,000, and the Rs. 10,000 are you further indebted to the Government?—No.

Is there not a claim against you from the Court of Wards?—Yes, for Rs. 2,000.

Is there an allegation that you have taken lakhs from the Court of Wards?—No, I have not heard of it.

Is there a claim that you and Mustaque Hussain have both jointly or separately taken money from the Court of Wards?—I never heard that, but Sarwar Jung is trying his best to find fault against me.

Then rightly or wrongly your conduct is under investigation to your knowledge?—Sarwar Jung is trying to find fault.

Answer the question directly?—Yes.

The order which you mention as having been issued preventing Government officials communicating with you, is only, as a matter of fact, addressed to the Court of Wards?—It says all Government officials.

But it is addressed to the Court of Wards, and signed only by officals of the Courts of Wards?—Yes.

Was your wife received in society at Pertabghar?—Yes.

By whom—? I don't remember.

Witness, continuing, said one man who received his wife was Meer Mahomed Hussain and several others. Colonel Hewitt was there, but he did not introduce his wife to Mrs. Hewitt. The reason why he did not introduce his wife to Colonel Hewitt, Colonel Grigg, and Captain Cavanagh, was because she was living in purdah, and observing the rules of the religion. English ladies seldom visited Mahomedan ladies, and twenty years ago to his knowledge no English ladies visited Mahomedan ladies. In 1889 he did not know that Ekbal-Ali was making enquiries into his marriage, he had since heard of it, but did not remember when. He did not know what statement Ekbal-Ali made in 1889. He did not know that Mahomed Hussain's, his witness', relations with his wife were somewhat shady. He did not know that Sir Salar Jung II. was ill in 1884. He believed that the name, "Mrs. Hodgson" mentioned in the pamphlet was intended for Mrs. Hodges, his wife's sister. He never authorised Mr. Gribble to make overtures to Mr. Tom Palmer to stop the case. He was not aware that Mr. Gribble waited on Mr. Palmer on Saturday, the 19th instant, and made a suggestion to that effect, nor had Mr. Gribble communicated it to him. If Sir Asman Jah swore upon oath that he, the witness, had knowledge of the Durand enquiry at the time it was going on it would be true, as Sir Asman Jah was a man who never told a lie.

This concluded the cross-examination of the Nawab Mehdi Hassan.

Mr. Ekbal-Ali, the seventeenth witness, was then cross-examined by Mr. Norton: He said he was aware that in 1889 certain enquiries were being made as to Mehdi Hassan's marriage relations. He made a statement which he handed over to Sir Asman Jah. The statement was to the effect that he knew Mehdi Hassan, and had heard that he had married an English lady and that he had executed a will in favour of his wife, and she had executed a will in favour of her husband.

Did you say you were present at the marriage ceremony?—I could not have said so.

As a matter of fact you could not have been present?—No.

At that time had you heard there was a marriage contract in writing?—I did not know of it.

You were an intimate friend of Mehdi Hassan?—Yes.

Did he tell you in 1889 that he had in his possession a contract of marriage between himself and wife?—When I made the statement to Sir Asman Jah I had no knowledge of the fact.

At whose request did you make the statement?—At the request of Moulvi Mustaque Hussain. I was told in a confidential way, and I did not communicate it to Mehdi Hassan.

Who told you about the wills?—Mehdi Hassan. They were executed in 1887 before he went to England?—I did not see the wills.

You knew in 1889 that Mrs. Mehdi Hassan had been presented to the Queen?—Yes.

You knew in 1889 that there were rumours that Mr. and Mrs. Mehdi Hassan were not married at all?—There was a talk about it.

You knew the Minister was making inquiries in consequence of a communication from the Foreign Office?—Yes.

Did you consider it a right and proper thing to make that statement involving a presentation to the Queen without going to the husband and making enquiries?—I was told to make the statement without consulting any one.

Who told you not to consult any one?—No one, but the matter was confidential.

Did you really believe when you made that statement that Mehdi Hassan was a married man?—Yes. I was not present at the marriage, but I believed they were married just as other people are married, at whose weddings I have not been present.

Do you know that Mustaque Hussain spoke to Mehdi Hassan about it?—Mustaque Hussain did tell me he had spoken to Mehdi Hassan about it.

You and Mehdi Hassan were great friends; if that marriage contract was a true document and as he had spoken about the wills, would you not expect him to mention the marriage contract?—He did not tell me of it.

Are you not surprised that through all the years of your friendship he has never mentioned it to you?—I don't know. He told me about it between the date of the previous enquiry and the filing of the suit.

Will you swear that it was not this year, 1892?—I cannot say when on oath. But it is one or two years since.

When did you first see it?—I have never seen it.

After you made the statement in the Durand enquiry, did not Mehdi Hassan come to you and say "You have made a statement about my marriage, here is my marriage certificate?"—No.

Did Mustaque whisper to you about it?—No.

After the Fitzpatrick enquiry was all over you did talk about it?—Yes, afterwards. Mehdi Hassan and I talked the matter over. I hid the fact from Mehd Hassan that I had made the statement.

Did people say you were Mehdi Hassan's witness?—Yes.

Do you want us to believe that Mr. Mehdi Hassan never asked you a question about being his witness?—It is your pleasure.

Then during three years you have never told Mehdi Hassan and he has never asked you about the statement you made about his marriage?—There may have been some talk.

Will you swear that you were ever told of this contract, and all the witness before this year?—I heard it before 1892.

When?—Not this contract, but a contract.

When of the existence of a contract?—Within two years.

Did it not strike you, a judge, as suspicious that at the Durand enquiries this marriage contract was not produced, but immediately afterwards it was produced?—Yes, it was a suspicious circumstance.

Was it not a fact that Mehdi Hassan was making enquiries about having the contract made in stamped paper of 1873?—I never heard of it.

Shujaat Ali also made a statement to the Minister?—Yes.

Do you know what he said?—He said he was present at the marriage.

Did he say he signed the contract deed in 1873?—So far as I know he did not, but I don't know.

Did you and Shujaat Ali speak about the matter?—We read our statements before the Minister at the same time.

And he said nothing about having signed the deed?—Not so far as I know.

Who else was present when the documents were read besides yourself and the Minster?—Mustaque Hussain.

Was Mehdi Hassan there?—Not in the room.

Was he to your knowledge in the palace, or about it that day?—There is a doubt whether he was there or not.

Did you see Major Gough about this matter?—No.

At Pertabghar you said Mrs. Mehdi Hassan was always received in Mahomedan circles as Mehdi Hassan's wife, can you give me the name of any one family?—I cannot.

Re-examined by Mr. Forbes, Ekbal-Ali said he could not say on what occasion Mehdi Hassan told him of the marriage contract. He did not remember ever having had a conversation with Mehdi Hassan about his marriage before Mrs. Mehdi Hassan returned from England. As far as he knew Mehdi Hassan had no knowledge of the Fitzpatrick enquiry whilst it was going on.

Then how could it be a suspicious circumstance that he did not produce the marriage certificate until afterwards?—I did not say it was a suspicious circumstance on the part of Mehdi Hassan. I meant my answer in a general sense, namely, that if a man knew of such enquiries and did not produce such a document until afterwards it would be suspicious.

Are you aware of the Government order preventing Government officials having anything to do with Mehdi Hassan?—I have not seen the order, but I have heard talk about it in the Court of Wards.

Before the Court adjourned Mr. Forbes said he wished to inform the Court that he was retiring from the case. Under ordinary circumstances he would have done so without making any remark, but he considered it right now to do so in the interests of his client to prevent any misconception as to his reason for taking such a step. He meant such misconception as might arise—if he could compare great things with small—as to the non-appearance of Mr. Inverarity and his own withdrawal. His reason was an entirely personal one, and he thought he was consulting his client's interests when he withdrew.

The Court adjourned until Tuesday morning.

THIS highly romantic and delightful opera was put upon the boards, at the Gaiety Theatre, last night, to a crowded house. The cast was splendidly undertaken by Mr. Willard's popular little company, who were enthusiastically applauded for its excellence. The scenery and mounting were brilliant, and the singing and choruses delightfully given. A further account will appear in to-morrow's issue.

THERE can be no question of Sir Auckland Colvin's deep interest in his favourite waterworks, observes a contemporary. On Friday, after the formal opening ceremony at Benares, when most men would have been glad to leave the waters to do their worst, the crowd of sightseers had no sooner dispersed than back came the Lieutenant-Governor, and Sir Charles Crosthwaite along with him, for a private and minute inspection of the whole system. Looking over the filters, inspecting the settling tanks and reservoirs, examining samples of the filtered water, driving to the pumping works at Bhadaini, and finally an inspection of distributing apparatus at the Kotwali, occupied the party from three in the afternoon until dark. The works at Benares are well entitled to be called a big job. As everyone knows, they are the largest and most important of the many similar projects that Mr. A. J. Hughes has had in hand simultaneously during the last four or five years. Some of the leading figures are impressive. Two sets of engines of 201 horse-power each pump the water up into the works. Two other sets of engines little less powerful are provided for driving the filtered water at high pressure through the miles of piping. The water itself is received in three settling tanks of a capacity of 4,718,000 gallons each: there are seven filters for its cleansing: and two reservoirs holding 1,800,000 gallons each for storing the clear water. The total length of the pipe system is 52 miles, and it is provided with 323 standposts in the public streets. The works are designed to give the large supply of 20 gallons per head of population in the sewered area of the city and 15 gallons per head in the unsewered. Remembering the state of Benares as it was, it would be no wonder if Sir Auckland Colvin, as he bade the water flow, felt himself to be doing something after the fashion of Moses when he smote the rock.

THE BEYTS CRAIG SWINDLES.

THE PROSECUTION AGAINST HARRY STAFFORD BEYTS.

AN EXEMPLARY SENTENCE.

YESTERDAY, at the Bombay Criminal Sessions, the hearing of the case against Harry Stafford Beyts, of the late firm of Beyts, Craig and Co., was opened before the Hon. Mr. Justice Parsons and a special jury. The accused claimed to be tried for the offence of cheating and forgery said to have been committed in respect of certain documents relating to the shipments of goods to continental ports, sold to the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China. Mr. Macpherson, and Mr. Inverarity, instructed by Messrs. Crawford, Burder, Buckland, and Bayley, appeared for the prosecution. Mr. J of out that no such goods had been put on board of either of the vessels. The way that was discovered by the Bank was this. The Bank authorities in Bombay received certain information from their London office in reference to other bills, those in the present cases being in course of transit to England, which induced Mr. Bergendahl to send over to the Custom House and inspect the manifest of the two vessels, and from the information he then acquired he had reason to suppose that the goods had never been shipped; that the bills were false, and that consequently the Bank had no security at all. Mr. Berghandahl, therefore, made out a list of all the bills which the prisoner had negotiated with the Bank, and some of which bills were at the time in transit. With that list in his hand he went over to the office of Messrs. Beyts, Craig and Co. and saw the accused there. He told the latter that he had ascertained that the goods which the accused had represented were on board were not, and asked him if such was the case. You will learn, gentlemen, from Mr. Bergendahl what was actually said by the accused on that occasion, and will find that the result of the conversation was that he pointed out to Mr. Bergendahl the bills on his list in respect of which no goods had been shipped. Mr. Bergendahl ticked off as the accused pointed them out, those which were wrong and those which were right, Mr. Bergendahl putting a tick against the latter in which goods had been shipped, and it would be found that the others in which no goods had been shipped formed the subject matter of those charges. Therefore we come to the point as to whether these goods were on board the vessels or not; and in reference to that you have the statement made by the accused himself, and you will also have proof from the manifest that the ships had not the goods on board. We shall also call evidence from the Port Trust that the goods were not and could not have been shipped, and we happen to know that the Port Trustees have a very good system of seeing what goods come into and what goods go out of the docks. There are certain gate passes issued, I believe, in triplicate, for all goods of the description, and one portion of the pass has to be given up by the cart-driver on entering the dock, so that it is impossible to believe that such a large quantity of goods as those deposed by the accused could have been allowed to pass into the docks undetected. In addition we shall call evidence of the people in the sheds in the docks to show that no such goods were received in the shed for shipment, and I think that evidence will satisfy you that these goods were not shipped at all. There was, however, an export shipment made by Messrs. Beyts, Craig and Co. of 784 bags of wheat by the s.s. Trewillard which were taken into the docks, but were not shipped and were taken out again by the accused on behalf of the firm, and which goods bore different marks to those said to have been sent away by the vessels. The question for you to determine, gentlemen, is therefore whether the representations were made to the Bank or not. In reference to them I would remind you that the document has been signed by the accused, and if you believe that there can be no doubt but that such representations were made, and there can be no doubt that if the goods were not on board, Mr. Berghandahl was deceived in believing that they had been shipped. If you believe that the goods were never shipped, and that the documents were "bogus ones. I think you will have no difficulty in coming to a conclusion that such representations were fraudulently and dishonestly made, and if you come to that conclusion I ask you to hold that accused has defrauded the Bank of the sums of £1,871-2-8 in one case, and £1,345-3-8 in the other, and is guilty of the offence of cheating.

Mr. J. C. Bergendahl, examined by Mr. Macphert son, said: I am agent in Bombay of the Chartered Mercantile Bank, and had been so since October, 1889. Among the constituents of the Bank were the firm of Beyts, Craig and Co., with whom, in the usual course of business, contracts were made by them to buy bills in advance. The bill shown to witness was like the bills he referred to. When a contract like the one referred to was entered into, the practice was to send in bills with documents attached. This contract (shown) referred to contracts entered into with the prisoner (Mr. Macpherson read the documents signed by H. Beyts). Witness had in his list in respect of which no goods had been shipped. Mr. Bergendahl ticked off as the accused pointed them out, those which were wrong and those which were right, Mr. Bergendahl putting a tick against the latter in which goods had been shipped, and it would be found that the others in which no goods had been shipped formed the subject matter of those charges. Therefore we come to the point as to whether these goods were on board the vessels or not; and in reference to that you have the statement made by the accused himself, and you will also have proof from the manifest that the ships had not the goods on board. We shall also call evidence from the Port Trust that the goods were not and could not have been shipped, and we happen to know that the Port Trustees have a very good system of seeing what goods come into and what goods go out of the docks. There are certain gate passes issued, I believe, in triplicate, for all goods of the description, and one portion of the pass has to be given up by the cart-driver on entering the dock, so that it is impossible to believe that such a large quantity of goods as those deposed by the accused could have been allowed to pass into the docks undetected. In addition we shall call evidence of the people in the sheds in the docks to show that no such goods were received in the shed for shipment, and I think that evidence will satisfy you that these goods were not shipped at all. There was, however, an export shipment made by Messrs. Beyts, Craig and Co. of 784 bags of wheat by the s.s. Mr. J. C. Bergendahl, examined by Mr. Macphert son, said down to the 28th June, 1892, he was

PURE PERSONALITIES.

THE Queen, it is announced will winter in Italy, choosing Florence or Bientina as the place where she will stay. Florence was visited by the Queen in March, 1888. Bientina is, of course, much less known to the general public. It is a little town of about two thousand inhabitants, lying to the east of Pisa, south of the railway that connects Pisa with Pistoja. Hence it is a little south-east of Lucca. It is also at the foot of Monti Pisani, a beautiful range of hills commanding delightful views. Bientina is an ancient town that has appertained at different epochs to its more powerful neighbours. It is well built, and has a fine square and a church of some interest. The lago di Bientina is a thing of the past. It was originally formed by the Serchio, but neither that river nor the Arno sufficed to carry off its waters in the winter time. It became, in consequence, a danger to the fertile country that surrounded it, and was drained by means of a canal.

The young Princesses of Wales will find on their return to Sandringham that their special rooms have been quite restored to their original condition, and the work has been so skilfully done that they will not notice any change. These rooms are their special domain, and it is here that they retire in order to carry on their favourite occupations. In corners may be seen the sewing machines with which so many bales of clothes have been worked for the poor of the neighbourhood. On the walls and tables are scattered a huge collection of photos of friends. Prominent among them is the face of Princess May of Teck, and amongst the others are the pretty Marquise d'Hautepoul (nee the Hon. Julia Stonor) and Miss Knollys. Here Princess Maud has carried on her manufacture of pretty nick-nacks from the dropped feathers of the Sandringham peacocks, and here in former times lessons were learnt and scales played. It is regarded as a great privilege among the Princesses' friends to be admitted to this retreat.

Earl Cowley, who was thrown by his horse recently in the hunting field and badly hurt, comes of a diplomatic stock, but has not himself made a bid for fame. He is best known as the father of Viscount Dangan, the gay young spark whose failure to marry Miss Phyllis Broughton added so materially to that lady's exchequer. Earl Cowley is a Wiltshire territorial magnate, with a rent-roll of £20,000 a year, and a big stone house at Draycot, which came to him by gift of the last Earl of Mornington. The Earl is supposed to have the chief interest in the Marlborough Club, which he bought from the late Sir James Mackenzie of Glenmuick.

Sir Frederick Bramwell, who spoke at the recent meeting of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers, is a genial old gentleman, with snow white hair and a somewhat rubicund countenance, who despite his 84 years, is still a very regular attendant at the meetings of the Institution of Civil Engineers, of which body he is a past president. He occupies a seat at the chairman's table, and has a tendency, which can readily be pardoned, of reminiscing from his wide experience. He is full of a dry sort of humour, and the two eyes behind his "pince nez" give a merry twinkle at the faintest suggestion of a joke.

The Miss Cozens who at the meeting of the Women's Emancipation Union at Birmingham, advocated—if the newspaper reports are to be trusted—the use of dynamite, is a mild-featured, gentle-mannered lady, the very reverse of the ordinary conception of the petroleuse. She is possessed of some private means, and having somewhat recently come into the movement, has devoted herself to it with all the enthusiasm of a neophyte. Miss Cozens some months ago projected a mighty demonstration of women suffragists in Hyde-park. Ultimately, however, the outdoor demonstration was given up for a meeting in St. James's Hall, much to Miss Cozens's indignation.

Mr. Swift MacNeill, the well-known Irish M.P. figured in the Dublin Police-court the other day as a prosecutor in a case in which a Hackney car driver was summoned for ill-treating his horse. Mr. MacNeill in the course of his evidence, stated he was the man "flaking the animal." "Flaking?" asked the magistrate; "is that English?" "Certainly," replied the M. P.; "but I'll say thrashing if you prefer it." Judges and magistrates in Ireland must be wonderfully pedantic and precise. Not long ago counsel in an action before Judge Warren, in Dublin, applied for an adjournment as his client had "wired" him that he would not be able to attend for a day or two. "Wired!" exclaimed the judge, "What do you mean by that curious word?" "Oh telegraphed, of course, my lord," responded the lawyer. "Well, sir," said Judge Warren, in solemn, measured tones. "You will please remember in future that nothing can be more indecorous than that the vocabulary of slang should be employed in any division of the High Court of Justice in Ireland."

Miss Mary Rorke—whose fine performance in "The Duchess of Malfi" has won the admiration of the critics—is destined for an eminent position on the English stage. One eminent critic has declared that she is one of the few actresses on the modern stage who understand blank verse and know how to speak it. And the compliment is deserved. Miss Mary Rorke has a fine poetic instinct, which is revealed in her remarkable power of expressing emotion; and to this power is united a beautiful and impressive voice. Miss Rorke's appearance in "The Duchess of Malfi" was to her a momentous one. It was her first creation in tragedy. Of course, she had achieved many previous successes. Who will not recall her charming Mrs. Erroll in "Lord Fauntleroy"? Was she not, too, the Queen Elizabeth in Mr. Mansfield's "Richard III."? But this was her opportunity in another, and perhaps a higher, dramatic walk; and the result was eminently gratifying to her friends. The part was suited to a Bernhardt; it was seen to be not beyond the power of Miss Rorke.

Mr. Frank Stone, who has recently finished a very successful medallion of Lord Tennyson, will be remembered by his bust of Cardinal Manning, as well as by his excellent medallion portraits of Lord Salisbury, Mrs. Booth, Mr. H. M. Stanley, and Mr. Gladstone, the Premier's being so good that he has signified his intention of sitting for a bust. Mr. Stone was born within the sound of Bow bells. He claims to be an execrable arithmetician, has a nodding acquaintance with at least four European languages, and is fond of music. He comes of a singularly long-lived family, some five or six generations extending back to the Merry Monarch." Two of the men reached the ages of one hundred and one and one hundred and three years. Mr. Stone is a born artist, and lives only for his art, though stern necessity drove him at one time to a commercial life, which by the way, he always hated with a holy and a deadly hate.

Lady Mabel Sievers, whose premature marriage created such a sensation a few weeks ago, has been staying at Long's Hotel with her husband. The bride has been kept busy arranging matters with the various milliners who had the trousseau in hand. Lady Mabel managed to secure a few of her smart new gowns to take off with her, but the wedding gown and most of the other dresses were not finished, and, like the wedding cake, remained in the establishment from which it was ordered until the bride returned to claim the goods. The bridal gown can be cut down for future wear, but how is the unused wedding cake to be disposed of?

An American paper gives some interesting particulars of Professor Karl Knies, under whom the Duke of York is studying at Heidelberg. He is in appearance the typical German Professor illustrated so often in "Fliegende Blatter" and other comic papers. His clothes never fit, his trousers are too short, and his hat and umbrella have lived through many rains. But his very indifference to outward appearances seems to endear him the more to the students. No one ever appealed to him for comfort in vain. The Crown Prince of Greece, the late Duke of Clarence, the Princes of Baden, have all listened to his words of wisdom.

Sir Herbert Maxwell has (says Mr. Labouchere in "Truth" undertaken a crusade against the "tall hat." May he be successful. No sooner does a man leave London than with a sigh of relief he casts aside this absurd head-covering. I can remember the time when every one who wished to be respected had to don a beaver "high hat." Silk hats were then regarded as rather low—the silk being supposed to be a sort of cheap imitation of beaver. There is only one way in which this detestable tall hat will ever cease to be the crown of city respectability. It is for the Prince of Wales never to wear it. If it is absolutely necessary to retain the silly shape, at least the silk might be eschewed, for what can be more absurd? Willingly, most willingly, would I sign a petition to His Royal Highness to inaugurate this reform.

It is quite on the cards that during the coming year society will be indulged with that rare event, the marriage of a Cabinet Minister. I am possessed of the interesting information (writes a London correspondent) that the suit Mr. Secretary Asquith has been paying to the handsome and accomplished daughter of a well-known Scottish baronet who has been in Parliament, and is a strong Gladstonian, has been successful, and that an engagement will shortly be announced.

Lady Randolph Churchill, whose illness every one hopes may be temporary, first met Lord Randolph, so the story goes, at a dinner-party in Paris. His attention was attracted to her by her beauty and the fluency and brilliancy with which she carried on conversation in French. He addressed her, and soon found that he had met his match in repartee. When the ladies had withdrawn, Lord Randolph turned to a friend and said, "That's the brightest woman I ever met, and I mean to marry her." And he did.
